

Hepatitis A Surveillance

January 1, 2018–June 5, 2021

Since 2018, 5,092 hepatitis A cases were reported.

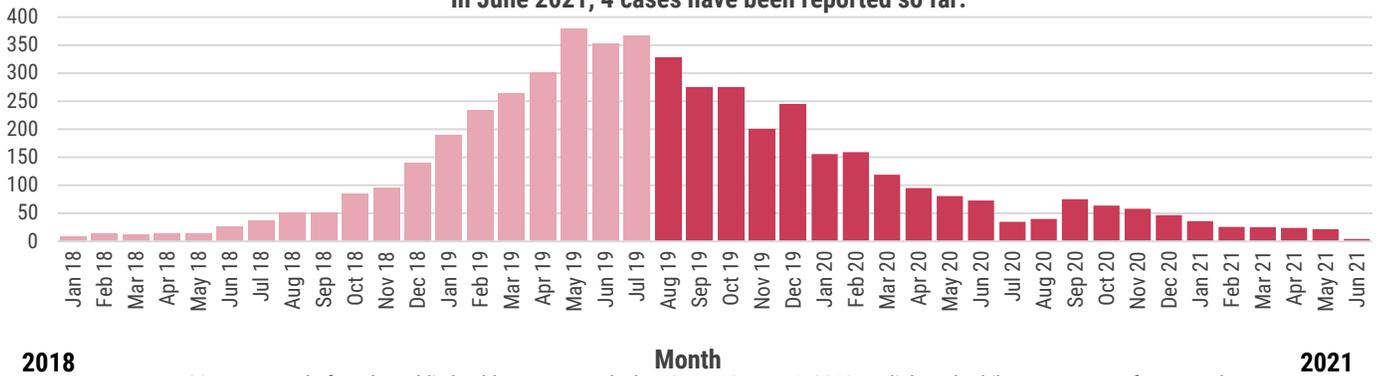

In 2016, hepatitis A outbreaks started to increase across the U.S. Florida hepatitis A cases began to increase in 2017 with more than a 500% increase in 2019.

Counties that reported hepatitis A cases in the past two weeks are outlined in black in the map below. Since 2018, 98% of cases have likely been acquired in Florida.

The graph below represents hepatitis A cases by month from 2018 to present.

In June 2021, 4 cases have been reported so far.

*Case counts before the public health emergency declaration on August 1, 2019 are light red, while case counts after are red.

The graph below represents hepatitis A cases by week for the past eight weeks.

From May 23, 2021 to June 5, 2021, 7 hepatitis A cases were reported.

Hepatitis A Vaccination Surveillance

January 1, 2019–June 5, 2021

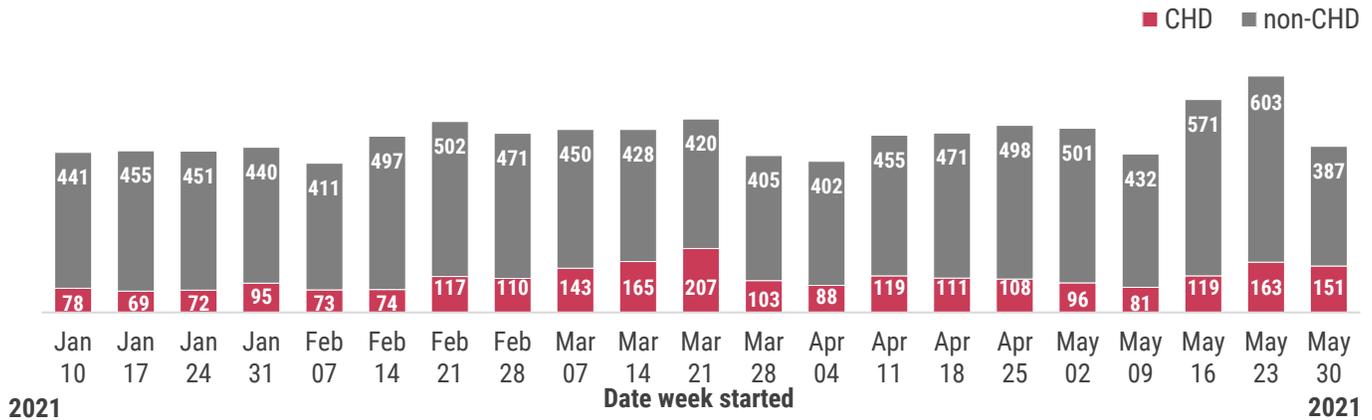

Since the public health emergency declaration on August 1, 2019, county health departments (CHDs) have administered 101,367 first doses of hepatitis A vaccine and non-CHDs have administered 146,302 first doses. A total of 405,765 first doses of hepatitis A vaccine were given since 2019.

*Case counts before the public health emergency declaration are light red, while case counts after are red.

From May 23, 2021 to June 5, 2021, 1,304 first doses of hepatitis A vaccine have been administered with CHDs administering 314 (19%) of those first doses.

From May 23, 2021 to June 5, 2021, 229 first doses of hepatitis A vaccine were administered by both CHDs and non-CHDs.

