

Text for Prevent Illness

This is a message from the Florida Department of Health. One of the dangers after a storm is contamination of food and water. Never eat food that has come into any contact with dirty water or has remained in the refrigerator or freezer without power for long periods of time. Listen to local announcements on the safety of your water supply, especially if you have a private well. If a boil water notice is issued for your area, use only commercially bottled water or water that has been boiled or disinfected.