

Collaboration

MRC and NEPP Team-up!

The Neighborhood Emergency Preparedness Program (NEPP) is a federally funded program which prepares Florida residents for most hazards and emergencies. In 2011, NEPP is teaming up with Volunteer Florida and the Florida Medical Reserve Corps Network to provide training, exercise opportunities and overall better coordination for emergency response planning.

The goal of NEPP is to establish self-sufficiency at the neighborhood residential level. Through NEPP, community teams are trained to join forces to plan, communicate, and coordinate activities before, during, and after a biological, natural, or man-made emergency.

