NEWS FROM THE FIELD

PALM BEACH COUNTY: MARJORIE S. FISHER RENEWS HER COMMITMENT TO CHILDREN’S TOOTH FAIRY

Committed to bettering the lives of children, Marjorie S. Fisher has renewed her operating funds contribution to the Florida Department of Health, Palm Beach County Dental Coach named the “Tooth Fairy” for another five years. The Tooth Fairy provides dental services to thousands of school aged children annually.

In 2009, Mrs. Fisher recognized the great need for all elementary school children in the county to get proper preventive care and treatment for their dental needs. With Mrs. Fisher's financial support, Florida Health Palm Beach County purchased, equipped and has been providing dental help to children through its mobile dental van for four years. This dental coach visits numerous elementary schools and other locations annually providing dental exams and tooth decay, preventing dental sealants on permanent molars. The Toothy Fairy has already helped over 10,000 children since its debut.

Health Department Dental Director, Philippe Bilger, DDS, said, “Mrs. Fisher’s support is like a Fairy Tale come true. Her most recent contribution really guarantees a bright future for children’s oral health in our county.”

Florida Health Palm Beach County also provides dental services to those who qualify in four health centers located in Delray Beach, Lantana, West Palm Beach and Belle Glade. For information contact the Dental Division at 561-837-5560 or visit www.pbchd.com.

Special Congratulations to Leaders in the Field

- Clint Sperber, Deputy Administrator for DOH-St. Lucie, graduated from the National Association of County and City Health Officials’ 12 month Survive and Thrive: Roadmap for New Local Health Officials program. The program lends practical tools and experience to top local health department leaders to facilitate their work with elected officials and community partners, manage strategic planning and health department resources, and discover approaches for addressing challenges unique to them.

DOH-Monroe has received a $56,000 grant from the Health Foundation of South Florida (HFSF) to establish smoke-free living in Monroe County through policy change. The HFSH is a nonprofit grant making organization, dedicated to improving health in Broward, Miami-Dade and Monroe Counties. Since 1993, the Foundation has awarded more than $100 million in grants and program support. For more information, please call 305.374.7200 or visit the website, www.hfsf.org

- DOH-Santa Rosa was designated as a Safe Community America at a January meeting of the Board of County Commissioners. It is the first county in the nation to receive the designation. The Safe Communities designation is awarded to communities that have demonstrated leadership in promoting safety, reducing injuries, and preparing their citizens for natural and man-made disasters.
The Bay Health Foundation awarded the BayCares program a grant in the amount of $100,000 for 2014. Bay Cares is a joint partnership between The Bays Medical Society and DOH-Bay to provide specialty medical care for uninsured patients who meet state guidelines. Over 200 physicians and medical providers volunteer their services to patients through the Bay Cares program.

Governor Rick Scott extended congratulations to Stephanie Vick, Executive Community Health Nursing Director for DOH-Collier and Erin Hess, Administrator for DOH-Okeechobee, for being recognized by the National Association of County and City Health Officials. Stephanie and Erin successfully completed “Survive and Thrive: Roadmap for New Local Health Officials Program” in an effort to continually serve Florida families across the state.

The Health Planning Council of Northeast Florida secured Whole Foods Market as a Gold sponsor for its annual Community First Hale & Hearty 7K Run/Walk. The event, which includes a one-mile fun run, is scheduled for June 7 at 6:30 pm at the new Unity Plaza in Jacksonville.

The Partnership For A Healthy Community’s Healthy Weight Workgroup is one of 12 community health improvement programs throughout the nation selected by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to be awarded the services of a national subject matter expert to provide coaching and consultant assistance for initiatives in progress. DOH-Escambia is an active participant in both the Partnership and the Healthy Weight Workgroup.

Dr. Judith Hartner, MD, Director of DOH-Lee, received recognition by the Board of County Commissioners of Lee County as the Paulette Burton Citizen of the Year. The annual award is given to the citizen who has performed outstanding civic contributions to Lee County government. She is credited with introducing Lee County to the strong link between the built environment and the growing burden of chronic diseases, spurring program development outside of public health through partnerships, a positive attitude and collaborations.

DOH-St. Lucie received a grant in the amount of $13,500 from the National Association of County and City Health Officials (NACCHO) to increase capacity to deliver Stanford University’s Chronic Disease Self-Management Program curriculum.

DOH-Monroe received a Davis Productivity Award for the Protocol for Assessing Community Excellence in Environmental Health (PACE-EH) project in the Bahama Village neighborhood of Key West. “Their implementation of PACE EH in the Bahama Village community was excellent and I applaud their staff and leadership for their dedication,” statewide PACE Coordinator Julianne R. Price wrote in a congratulatory email. Alison Morales Kerr MPH teamed up with Environmental Health Director Bill Brookman and Key West City Commissioner Clayton Lopez to launch the project in 2012. The project offers village residents the chance to share public health concerns with DOH-Monroe staff and project partners, especially through the communitywide task force that was specifically created to address those concerns.

As a part of National Public Health Week activities, a team assembled in New Port Richey to complete the Environmental Public Health Performance Standards self-
Following the meeting, Polk County health leaders engaged in dialogue for follow-up and action. In addition to DOH-Pasco staff, the assessment included representatives from other organizations and sectors in their local environmental public health system that play important roles in promoting and preserving the health and safety of Pasco County. DOH-Pasco’s Public Health Week Activities also included hosting a “Sustaining Community Action through Effective Partnering” Workshop for community partners to discuss and build capacity for sustained community health improvement efforts.

- DOH-Escambia staff collaborated with the University of West Florida’s theme of the day “Eating Well,” as part of National Public Health Week activities. DOH-Escambia staff is participating in the Healthy Weight Workgroup. This organization is tasked with implementing the community health improvement plan related to Healthiest Weight.

- In preparation for their 2014 community health needs assessment, DOH-Polk assembled a diverse group of leaders from both of their major not-for-profit hospitals, FQHC, one of their for-profit hospitals, several clinics and their county indigent health care plan. They familiarized participants with the overlap of assessment requirements for both the health department and the non-profit hospitals, per IRS/ACA rules, and invited them to work jointly on the project. The presentation also included an overview of the MAPP process and resulted in volunteers offering to serve in either role of executive group member or working group member.

WHAT'S NEW ON CHARTS?

All county health profiles on Florida CHARTS have now been updated to include an expanded demographics section. This section now includes indicators such as:

- Population
- Population under 18 Years Old
- Population 18-64 Years Old
- Population 65 and Over
- Median household income
- Individuals below poverty level
- Civilian labor force which is unemployed
- Owner-occupied housing units
- Individuals 25 years and over with no high school diploma

The addition of these indicators makes each report a more valuable source of information for community health assessment.

On Monday, January 13, 2014, the Commission to Build a Healthier America released recommendations reflecting the best advice from leading experts in the field for how to most effectively promote a culture of health in the United States, including:

- Prioritizing investments in early childhood and getting kids off to a healthy start in life;
- Rethinking our healthcare system and incentives to improve well care, prevention and support for health as part of our daily lives; and
- Working across sectors to create healthier communities and making healthier choices easier choices in our workplaces, neighborhoods and schools.

CDC’s newly released 2013 Prevention Status Reports (PSRs) highlight the status of state-level policies and practices designed to prevent 10 important public health problems. The PSRs are a set of individual reports that focus on 10 health topics for all 50 states including the District of Columbia. The reports provide information for decision makers and state health officials to review their states’ health status and identify areas of improvement.

2014 Healthy Living Calendars, provided by the CDC, inspire living a healthy life with colorful one-page monthly and yearly calendars.

County Health Rankings and Roadmaps released on March 26, 2014 The Rankings offer an easy-to-use snapshot of overall health for nearly every county in the U.S. See where your county ranks here.

Share Our Strength is empowering families to eat healthy, affordable, delicious meals on a national scale through its Cooking Matters at the Store. As part of the No Kid Hungry campaign to end childhood hunger in America, Share Our Strength's Cooking Matters teaches participants to shop smarter, use nutrition information to make healthier choices and cook delicious, affordable meals. Founded in 1993, Cooking Matters and thousands of volunteer instructors have helped more than 120,000 low-income families in communities across the country learn how to eat better for less.

Built Environment

The Healthy Community Design Toolkit can help planners, public health professionals, and the general public include health in the community planning process. Developed in partnership between the American Planning Association’s Planning and Community Health Research Center and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s Healthy Community Design Initiative, the toolkit is composed of four elements that work together to achieve this goal:

- Checklists
- PowerPoint Presentation
- Neighborhood Health Profile
- Planning Guide

Click here to access the toolkit and learn more.

The American Society of Landscape Architects has compiled “hundreds of free research studies, news articles, and case studies, organized by adult and children health topics” regarding the health benefits of nature. They recently released this website, check it out!
http://www.asla.org/healthbenefitsofnature.aspx

Local health departments (LHDs) have a key role in developing built environment policies and programs to encourage physical activity and combat obesity and related chronic diseases. However, information to guide LHDs’ effective engagement in this arena is lacking. During 2011–2012, the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) facilitated a built environment peer mentoring program for 14 LHDs nationwide. One of the included LHDs was our very own Miami-Dade County health department. Program objectives included supporting LHDs in their efforts to achieve built environment goals, offering examples from DOHMH’s built environment work to guide LHDs, and building a healthy built environment learning network. Lessons learned that can guide LHDs in developing successful healthy built environment agendas are included. (Am J Public Health. Published online ahead of print March 13, 2014: e1–e9. doi:10.2105/AJPH.2013.301863). OPPORTUNITIES AND GRANTS

OPPORTUNITIES

NACCHO wants to know if you are interested in increasing community resiliency or your community’s ability to prepare, respond, and recover from emergency events. NACCHO is working on a new project investigating community resiliency, and wants to hear from you. There may be opportunities to receive free training and technical assistance. If you want to share your story and learn more about working with NACCHO on this topic, contact Julia Joh Elligers at jjoh@naccho.org or (202) 507-4234.

NACCHO Launches Health and Disability Technical Assistance Program

NACCHO’s Health and Disability Program is pleased to offer Technical Assistance (TA) to state and local health departments interested in increasing inclusion and engagement of people with disabilities in emergency plans and/or policies. This program is sponsored by the National Center on Birth Defects and Developmental Disabilities (NCBDDD) at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Based on identified gaps, NACCHO will provide TA through information, education, and suggestions for how to be more engaging and inclusive of people with disabilities.

All health departments interested in receiving TA from NACCHO through this program must complete an online questionnaire by April 15, 2014. The questionnaire is available here: http://naccho.co1.qualtrics.com/SE/?SID=SV_6QgJFiLQa2S4SZn. For assistance or accommodations needed to complete the questionnaire, please contact Sarah Yates at syates@naccho.org or call 202-595-1122.

2014 Call for APHA awards nominations

The American Public Health Association is now accepting nominations for its 2014 APHA awards program. Nominate a colleague who exemplifies outstanding professionalism, dedication and contributions in the field of public health. Membership is not required for nomination to several of APHA's national awards. The awards will be presented at APHA's 142nd Annual Meeting and Exposition, Nov. 15-19, 2014 in New Orleans.

The deadline for nominations is April 25. Awards description criteria and nomination forms are available at www.apha.org/about/awards. For more information, contact deborah.dillard@apha.org or 202-777-2442.

Center for Active Design Call for Projects (no deadline)
http://centerforactivedesign.org/call_projects/

The Center for Active Design is building its reference collection of innovative projects that use built environment design to promote health. The Center will feature accepted projects among their case studies. And the Center might tap accepted projects for future conferences, publications, and exhibitions. Submitted projects should exemplify the strategies found in the Active Design Guidelines.

GRANTS

Healthy Habits: Timing for Developing Sustainable Healthy Behaviors in Children and Adolescents
National Institutes of Health

The Healthy Habits Small Grant Program funds research that identifies mechanisms of influence and/or promotes positive sustainable health behaviors in children and youth. Positive health behaviors may include practicing proper dental hygiene, eating a balanced diet, and engaging in physical activity while applications to promote these behaviors should target social and cultural factors such as schools, families, and communities.

Awards of up to $50,000 a year for two years will be available. Eligible organizations include public and private institutions of higher education, nonprofits, for-profit organizations, government agencies, and faith-based or community-based organizations.

Deadline: September 8, 2014
Please contact the National Institutes of Health for more information and to apply for this funding: http://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/pa-files/PA-11-328.html

The American Heart Association and Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Voices for Healthy Kids program has several different types of grant opportunities addressing six priority areas: smart school foods; healthy drinks; marketing matters; food access; active places; and active kids out of school. Click here for more details.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Healthy Community Design Initiative is awarding funds to increase the capacity of public health departments to include health considerations in transportation and land use planning decisions.

Helping your coalition partner with funding? A new funding opportunity is from Action for Healthy Kids, the 2014-2015 School Grants for Healthy Kids. It focuses on school breakfast and school physical activity programs. Award amounts will be based on building enrollment, project type, potential impact, and a school's ability to mobilize parents and students around school wellness initiatives. Applications must be filed by May 2, 2014. The deadline will not be extended.

"EMERGING THEME" TOPIC FOR NEXT MEET-ME-CALL
Recent CHD comments shared with Community Health Improvement Staff on non-profit hospitals and CHD assessment alignment in the field include:

- We started out strong with our assessment and priority setting but struggle with the action and implementation stage. What is working in other counties?
- Our hospitals have different definitions than we do for health and "community needs;" how can we help them with a paradigm shift to see the bigger picture?
- Managing personality conflicts in our small county are difficult—everyone knows everyone and the same people are at every meeting. What are some creative ways to deal with this issue?
- Collaborating with our non-profit hospitals is not an issue for us; it is the true integration that is difficult. How are other counties planning to fully integrate as we all move ahead in our CHIP implementation and next MAPP cycle?

ABOUT FLORIDA MAPP

Please share this e-news with community partners, colleagues, and anyone interested in impacting your community’s health.
Community health assessment practice is the process of systematically collecting, analyzing and using information to educate and mobilize communities, develop priorities, gather resources, and plan actions to impact the public's health. Assessment is a core function of public health practice. Assessment is the foundation for the other two core functions of public health; Policy Development and Assurance. The information, tools and resources of Florida MAPP are designed to improve the capacities of Florida's public health workforce to develop strategies and interventions which lead to improved population health through community partnership building, collaboration and resource sharing. http://www.myfloridamapp.com
