In the past ten years, the percentage of high school students who have ever had sexual intercourse has declined by over 10% among males, females, and all Florida students. In 2017, 34% of high school females and 42% of high school males reported that they had ever had sexual intercourse. Overall, 38%, or about 4 in 10, reported that they had ever had sexual intercourse.

In 2017, 34% of high school females and 42% of high school males reported that they had ever had sexual intercourse.

Overall, 38%, or about 4 in 10, reported that they had ever had sexual intercourse.

As students get older, the likelihood that they have had sexual intercourse increases.

As students get older, the likelihood that they have had sexual intercourse increases.

In 2017, 25% of high school females and 28% of high school males reported that they were sexually active. Overall, 26%, or about 1 in 4, reported that they are sexually active.

In 2017, 25% of high school females and 28% of high school males reported that they were sexually active. Overall, 26%, or about 1 in 4, reported that they are sexually active.

Since 2015, drug and alcohol use prior to sexual encounters has decreased, though overall, levels are similar to ten years ago.

Since 2015, drug and alcohol use prior to sexual encounters has decreased, though overall, levels are similar to ten years ago.