Presented by Mary Ann Burg, PhD, LCSW

Dr. Mary Ann Burg, PhD, MSW, LCSW, is currently a Professor in the School of Social Work, College of Health Professions at the University of Central Florida in Orlando. She formerly worked as a faculty member of the Department of Family Medicine at the University of Florida. Dr. Burg's primary research focus throughout her career has been breast cancer control and access to cancer survivorship care. Trained as both a medical sociologist and a clinical social worker, Dr. Burg's research and teaching career has spanned preventive medicine, family medicine and social work. Dr. Burg's current research aims at exploring processes of communication and advocacy across systems of cancer care, with the hope of identifying processes leading to more equitable access to quality cancer care and reducing cancer disparities. Dr. Burg's research has been published in a variety of clinical journals. She also has worked extensively with interdisciplinary faculty teams and published research on the design and outcomes of inter-professional health education programs. Her most recent book, The Behavioral Health Specialist in Primary Care: Skills for Integrated Practice, is used for interdisciplinary health profession's training in the U.S. and abroad.
