

Florida Health Grand Rounds

Presenter Bio

Presented by Troy Quast, PhD

Dr. Quast is an economist who received his doctorate from the University of Florida and master's degree from The University of Texas. His research interests include the impact of economic conditions on health status, the effects of opioids, and the impact of natural disasters on health outcomes and health care utilization. He has been funded by the National Institutes of Health to investigate the effects of Hurricane Katrina on children and seniors and uses large data sets to analyze population health issues.