Baby Rxpress Program

The Baby Rxpress Program (Baby Rx) provides up to six weeks of antiretroviral therapy (ART) for infants born to women living with HIV. The program operates through a voucher system that can be redeemed at participating pharmacies located throughout Florida. When families have no other means of payment, medications are dispensed at no cost to them in exchange for a Baby Rxpress voucher. The program's primary goal is to ensure that infants leave the hospital with their prescribed ART medication in hand.

Under the program, a physician writes a prescription for the appropriate medication. The prescription, along with the Baby Rxpress voucher, is presented to a participating pharmacy, which then dispenses the medication. The pharmacy subsequently invoices the Department, and reimbursement is issued for the medication provided.

The Department continues to expand the Baby Rxpress Program by recruiting additional participating pharmacies across the state. Currently, the program includes more than 90 pharmacy locations, helping ensure timely access to life-saving medication for infants and families throughout Florida.

- Jackson Drug (Fort, Pierce, FL)
- Jackson Pharmacy (Three specialty pharmacies servicing multiple Jackson Memorial Hospital sites, Miami, FL)
- Scripts Pharmacy at Orlando Health (Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital, Orlando, FL)
- Walgreens (various locations across the state)
